Alkali In Soap

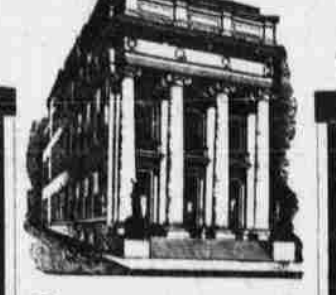

Bad for the Hair

Soap should be used very carefully. If you want to keep your hair looking its best. Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and ruins it.

The best thing for steady use is Mulitified coconut oil shampoo (which is pure and greaseless), and is better than anything else you can use.

One or two teaspoonfuls will cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which rinses out easily, removing every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves the scalp soft, and the hair fine and silky, bright, lustrous, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get Mulitified coconut oil shampoo at any pharmacy; it's very cheap, and a few ounces will supply every member of the family for months.

Bishop Gailor Is Quietly Observing Sixty-third Birthday

Bishop Gailor quietly observed his 63d birthday Wednesday with members of his family. The bishop has recently returned from his summer home in Seaside and is prepared to spend some time in Memphis.

Like a number of other distinguished Memphians, Bishop Gailor was born in Mississippi, but with his family he came to Memphis when he was only a few years old and attended the city schools, being one of the first graduates of the old high school.

Bishop Gailor has been at the head of the Episcopal church in Tennessee since 1888, when he succeeded the late Bishop Charles Todd Quintard, having been elected bishop coadjutor five years previously. He was ordained to the priesthood in 1880, but held only one parish before going to the University of the South, as professor of ecclesiastical history and as vice-chancellor. He declined election to the bishopric of Georgia in 1890.

R. Scarborough, general director.

Mr. Anderson is chairman of the campaign committee and president of the state Baptist convention of Tennessee, as well as the laymen's missionary movement for this state. Of the $250,000 contributed to the campaign by Mr. Anderson $150,000 is undesignated, while the remaining $100,000 will go to Carson-Newman college, at Jefferson City, Tenn.

WARREN COUNTY LEADS IN VOCATIONAL WORK

JACKSON, Miss, Sept. 17. (Spl.)—That Warren county, Mississippi, is the only county in the United States where free vocational education is in the reach of every white child is the claim of J. T. Calhoun, state rural school supervisor, who has completed an investigation of the educational system of the county of which Vicksburg is the county seat.

There are five consolidated schools in the county, comprising 60 one-teacher schools since 1912. In all, agriculture, home science, and music are taught in the high school department by well-trained, highly paid teachers.

The smallest salary paid in 1919-1920 is $90. Principals receive $2,000 a year and their homes. All schools run six months, and the county recently voted $50,000 for their support, to be added to the state school fund. Only seven votes were cast in the entire county against this appropriation.

J. H. Culkin is superintendent. All schoolhouses are new, modern and well equipped, and each has a teachers' home nearby.
